Quick Wink from a Queen

Crown and sceptre didn't spoil Esquimalt's Queen Sandra Dodd's sense of fun. She had a quick wink for admirers when she ascended the throne for her coronation last night, the 15th young lady to rule the May-time celebrations in the municipality. Ceremony was in Memorial park, where HMCS Naden's band provided incidental music and 3,000 watched, intrigued. — (Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Laing Poses Question:

Did Bennett Offer Thatcher Huge Sum To Go Socred?

B.C. Liberal leader Arthur Laing last night challenged "the integrity of Mr. Bennett and his government—and nothing less."

He told the annual meeting of Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal Association in Victoria: "I know why Mr. Bennett wants an election in 1956, but I want him to tell the people.

"The chickens are winging their way home to roost—and awful fast."

Mr. Laing stepped a pace forward on his platform and said: "Because he was in Regina recently, I want Mr. Bennett to tell me there is no truth in the story that in December, 1954, in Vancouver, he made an appointment with Ross Thatcher, then CCFer for Moose Jaw.

UNLIMITED FUNDS

"I want him to tell the people of B.C. if it is true that when he met him, he asked if he would accept Social Credit leadership in Saskatchewan, with unlimited funds and $200,000 to start with, to be placed in a bank of his choice in Regina.

"If he won't deny this, it is up to the people of B.C. to find out where Bennett gets funds like that to gratuitously invade the politics of a sister province.

Mr. Laing turned and pointed at the press for a moment and said: "You gentlemen are my Hansard tonight."

AWARE BACK EAST

He went on: "If the people of B.C. aren't aware of what is going on in this province, they are aware back East.

"A better-known eastern newspaperman said recently: 'I can't believe that the people of B.C. don't stand up and find out the facts about what is going on.'

"Bennett's answer is 'No comment.' There are charges which I cannot discuss here which are more serious than have ever been labelled against a B.C. government before.

NO RIGHT THERE

"In Saskatchewan recently, where he had no right to go, Mr. Bennett said his government was spending $82,000,000 on its highways program

"This was according to both BUP and CP reports. "But I have accounts to prove that last year his government spent $20,000,000 on roads.

"This year they are spending not $82,000,000, but according to Bennett's own figures, $63,346,000." Mr. Laing said this included $8,000,000 to be spent on provincial buildings.

Mr. Laing said that following the resignation of the general manager of the PGE, Einar Gunderson was now in "sole charge" of PGE contracts.

"This man has joined the directorates of nine firms in the last 18 months," he went on.

"We have never had such a mixture of private and public business as that before, and I say it is dangerous."

At the meeting, J. Ronald Grant was elected president; Chisholm Fraser, first vice-president; Russ Eveleigh, second vice-president; Miss Mary Graham, secretary-treasurer.

Fraser Tunnel Nearer

NANAIMO (BUP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett announced last night that tenders will be called "as soon as possible" for a $16,600,000 Deas island tunnel under the Fraser river.

It will be completed within two-and-one-half years, he said.

Mr. Bennett, speaking to a Social Credit rally of 600 people, also announced that former Liberal minister of mines William James Asseltine had joined the ranks of the Social Credit party.

Calling Asseltine "a Liberal of the Liberals," Mr. Bennett said the former cabinet minister had taken out a four-year membership in the Social Credit movement.

H-Bomb Test Postponed

BIKINI (AP) — The U.S. H-bomb test was postponed again today only one hour and 36 minutes before shot time.

A new tentative date was set for Friday.

Foreign Money in Canada Causing Uneasiness—Pearson

MONTREAL (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Wednesday night some aspects of foreign participation in Canadian development are causing uneasiness.

Mr. Pearson said development of western Canada's oil resources could not have been accomplished without foreign investment. Only companies or organizations with vast international resources were able to operate on a scale large enough to offset losses in one area against gains in another.

"We should not forget this when we hear cries of 'foreign domination' or 'predatory American interests'—or, even 'Texas buccaneers'," he said.

It often was impossible for Canadians to participate in the ownership of a Canadian subsidiary of a foreign corporation by buying stock in it.

"I think it would be generally recognized in Canada that wherever possible it is desirable that the ownership of any Canadian company should be open to possible Canadian participation.

"I realize that with regard to some wholly-owned subsidiaries this would require extensive and difficult rearrangements of the organization of the parent and subsidiary companies. But I would suggest that foreign corporations with wholly-owned subsidiaries in Canada might do well to give some thought to the benefits to their Canadian operations that could follow from arrangements of this kind."

Drama in B.C. Log Cabin

Boys Spend Night of Terror With Hunted Prison-Breaker

Fugitive Crawls Through Window

RADIUM, B.C. (CP)—Two young boys spent a terror-filled night in a tiny log cabin here while, beside them, a 33-year-old jail-breaker took a few hours respite in sleep after a 2½-day flight from police.

RCMP were still searching the hills around this southeastern British Columbia town late Wednesday for the fugitive, Norman Jack Curtiss. He faces a court hearing at Cranbrook, on a charge of rape and also is wanted by Alberta police on charges of rape, breaking and entering and theft.

Reid Madson and Don Dehart had gone to bed shortly after 9 o'clock Tuesday night in the log cabin behind the Dehart farmhouse, one mile from the highway and aobut 80 miles southwest of Calgary.

DOG BARKS

Shortly before midnight they were awakened by the barking of young Dehart's collie pup.

With moonlight illuminating the scene, they saw a man crawling through the window and guessed it was Curtiss, object of an intensive search since he broke out of jail at Cranbrook last Sunday.

Curtiss said: "Are you awake, sonny?" The boys said they were too frightened to reply and pretended to be asleep.

They said Curtiss went over to another cot in the cabin and went to sleep. The frightened boys remained awake until he arose at 5 a.m. and left.

FOOD STOLEN

The boys then watched him go to the Dehart home, reach through a window and lift Mr. Deart's lunch box from the kitchen table. He then disappeared into the woods and the boys raised the alarm.

RCMP and local police were joined Wednesday by three police dogs flown in from various parts of the province. More than a dozen searchers were accompanied by a circling RCMP plane in their hunt through swampy bushland and hills.

Police said Curtiss was cornered in the Radium area after an 80-mile flight from Cranbrook, where he escaped while a guard was taking away his breakfast dishes. He stole two cars in his flight, RCMP said, and crashed through a police roadblock only to abandon the second stolen car in a ditch near here.

Feud Bomb Halted

COLLINGWOOD, Ont. (BUP)—Police last night charged Fred Smith, 35, with attempting to blow up a house containing 27 persons because of a feud between neighbors.

Smith, a neighbor to Mrs. Margaret Lightheart, was charged specifically with arson in allegedly setting a charge in the Lightheart home last Friday and lighting the fuse.

One of Mrs. Lightheart's sons snatched the fuse from the homemade bomb when it was only a quarter inch from the explosive.

All Brink's Gang Accounted For

BOSTON (UP)—Two members of the notorious Brink's gang, who evaded an FBI dragnet when the crime was solved Jan. 12, were captured without a fight in a Dorchester section apartment last night.

The arrest of Thomas F. Richardson, 48, and James I. Faherty, 44, put all surviving members of the gang that allegedly pulled the $1,219,000 robbery of Jan. 17, 1950 behind bars.

The Boston office of the FBI said when the long-sought pair were seized in the apartment three revolvers were found in the place but the men had no chance to use them.

Richardson and Faherty were taken to the federal building for arraignment before a U.S. commissioner, the FBI said.

The FBI claimed 11 men participated in the fabulous robbery at Brink's counting house here. Eight were arrested, or already in custody, when the FBI announced solution of the crime. The ninth member is dead.

House Boat Away!

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Robert T. Brown struck a blow Wednesday for the do-it-yourself set. A 26-foot cabin cruiser was launched from his living room where it was built with half an inch to spare.

For six weeks while the boat was being built the neighbors wagered it "won't make it" through the nine-foot, 5½-inch gap in the wall set aside for a picture window.

Brown, a building contractor, figured that while workmen were building his house he could build a cruiser inside.

With the neighbors as an audience, the new craft nosed majestically past the fireplace, through the window opening and down a ramp to water 60 feet away.

Ottawa 'Unfair'

Homes Demanded For Old People

OTTAWA (CP)—Progressive Conservative Howard Green Wednesday called for greater federal action to provide housing for elderly Canadians and said government policy on that score is "unreasonable and unfair."

The member for Vancouver Quadra said in the Commons the government has no authority under the National Housing Act to specify that rental housing projects built under federal-provincial arrangements cannot be used entirely for old people.

Works Minister Winters denied government discrimination against the elderly in its housing operations.

He said Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation permits up to 20 per cent of rental housing built under federal-provincial auspices to be occupied by those over 65. That age group made up only 7.7 per cent of Canada's population.

The question was raised during debate on a government bill to amend the National Housing Act. Slum-clearance provisions will be changed to allow commercial and industrial use of sub-standard city areas cleared with federal help, instead of the present limitation on use to housing and government purposes.

The measure also increases the maximum on government-guaranteed loans for home improvements from $2,500 to $4,000 for single dwellings and from $1,250 to $1,500 for additional home units in a building.

The Commons gave final approval to the bill after opposition members closely examined several aspects of it.

The government did not feel those projects should be restricted to any ethnic, economic or age group.

However, the housing act provided another way of building rental housing by limited dividend companies receiving a 90-per-cent federal loan and the company could stipulate who would occupy the homes. That had been done in many cases.

Mr. Green said the government policy runs counter to the spirit of the housing act.

"I must protest it," he said. "It's very unreasonable and unfair."

R. R. Knight (CCF—Saskatoon) suggested a tax-law change to encourage donations to help establish limited dividend companies which would build housing for the elderly. Donations should be considered as charitable gifts deductible for income tax purposes.

MARILYN MONROE

Underdog Stirs Up The Wolf

VANCOUVER (CP)—Marilyn Monroe's appeal is more than straight sex appeal, says Dr. Edro Signori, psychologist at the University of British Columbia.

"It's a reflection of the feeling for the underdog," Dr. Signori said Wednesday. "An expression of self-pity."

"A lot of people can identify themselves with her—the simple girl who reached great heights . . . It provides her admirers with a way of getting rid of feelings of inferiority.

"A lot of people are in poor economic straits, the same position Miss Monroe was in. They like to see proof that an underdog can climb to the top."

Riches In Store For B.C.

Faith of industry in B.C.'s future will make this province the richest of all within the next three years, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said last night.

Capital investment in B.C. this year will be up 51 per cent over 1955, he told a Social Credit rally in the Golden Slipper auditorium.

Some 200 persons attended Public Works Minister W. N. Chant and Mrs. Lydia Arsens, Victoria MLA, also spoke briefly.

Weather Records Still Intact Despite Phenomenal 76 Peak

No matter how brightly you think the sun has been shining this month, no records have been broken, said a harried weatherman last night.

True, the temperature reached a phenomenal 76 yesterday—but on May 16, 1925, it was 84 degrees.

There were 164 hours of sunshine from May 1-15 this year, but this does not compare with 1913, 1935 or 1938.

So far this year, Victoria has had 728 hours of sunshine—but during the similar period of 1951, 763 hours were recorded.

There is still a chance that this month will be a sunshine record—but the sun will have to keep shining every day to beat the present record of 333 hours for May, 1913.

The weather experts say the fine spell will continue. There is no sign of the present high pressure ridge breaking up.

New Drug Largely Prevents Bad Colds, Virus Pneumonia

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army Wednesday announced development of a new vaccine which it said "promises to reduce" the number of cases of acute respiratory diseases such as grippe, virus pneumonia, sore throat and severe colds.

An army statement said a trial of the vaccine on more than 350 recruits at Fort Dix, N.J., cut down the number of hospital cases of such illnesses by more than 80 per cent.

Maj.-Gen. Silar B. Hays, army surgeon-general, said that the new vaccine was developed at the Walter [illegible] of Research in Washington.

With G. E. Mortimore

A CORRIDOR from our office opens on the roof. Sometimes a man will go out there for a taste of fresh air and sun, if he is eccentric enough to value those things.

Spray from the cooling system fills the air, damping the hot gravel of the roof. The water collects in pools, rushes down the drains. The tinkle of linotypes can be heard through the open skylight window.

A ladder propped against the wall leads to a higher level of the roof. The rungs are covered with the industrial soot which lies thick on everything. Oddly enough, it doesn't show up until it is transferred to the hands or the shirt collar.

* * *

A man can get delusions of grandeur on the upper roof, looking down on the city and imagining that no one can see him; but those ideas are soon dispelled when he sees an acquaintance staring up with a sardonic grin.

The dirty-red bulk of the school appears on one side, through a curtain of chestnut leaves and blossom. Farther along a mixed assortment of boys and girls who range in size from tots to teens are playing a joyful and highly erratic ball game under the shadow of the poplars.

To the south and southwest, the white Olympics loom above a forest of signs and rooftops, sluggish mill chimneys and television aerials.

There is a summer haze over everything. The street, jammed an hour ago with clock-watchers homeward bound, is now almost bare. A red convertible sweeps by, carrying a young couple huddled together. A right-hand-drive sports car driven by a rakish youth sweeps around Fountain Circle.

A bus hisses to a stop and gathers in one or two waiting people, including the friend, who waves a sardonic farewell to the rooftop watcher.

Now it is time to quit looking down on the city, remove the soot from the hands, and get back to work.

Critics of Pipeline Fight All the Way

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons today enters the second stage of its epic pipeline battle after a stormy 12-hour sitting, ending early Wednesday, approved introduction of the government's bill for a giant loan to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

Closure, a government weapon used for the first time since 1932, choked off bitter debate on the initial stage of the legislation at 1.05 a.m.

AGAIN AND AGAIN

The same device is expected to be used again, perhaps three times more, to overcome determined Progressive Conservative and CCF opposition to the bill's passage.

But although it forced an end—after two days—to the opening debate it could not block a subsequent barrage of opposition delaying motions and procedural arguments from spinning out the post-midnight sitting another 3½ hours.

The Commons adjourned at 4.41 a.m. The sitting had begun at 2.30 p.m. Tuesday with two hours out for supper.

HISTORICAL SESSION

It was a session for Parliament's history books with nine votes, 23 speeches and uncounted angry words, drowned at times in bedlam.

Today's renewed debate will be on the government's motion for second reading—approval in principle—of the bill.

Reds Riding High Says Correspondent

EDMONTON (CP)—Matthew Halton, CBC European correspondent, says that the "world outlook for communism is better than ever before."

Mr. Halton said Wednesday that the Soviet Union is playing from the strength derived from its spectacular economic and technological progress, from the consolidation of Communist rule in China and eastern Europe, and from the anti-colonial ferment in Asia and Africa.

The western world must remember that Russia's apparent renunciation of conquest by war does not mean renunciation of conquest, he warned.

Halton, a native of Alberta, was in Edmonton to receive an honorary doctor of laws degree from the University of Alberta at its spring convocation today. Halton graduated from the university in 1929.

In Vogee Case

Probe Board Will Inspect Mount Newton High School

A three-man board of inquiry into an appeal by Arthur E. Vogee from dismissal as principal will inspect Mount Newton High school before ending hearings at Victoria courthouse.

It was learned yesterday, the third day of sittings, that no date has been set. Lone witness in the hearings to date has been Dr. Harold Johns, Saanich school district 63 inspector.

Transfer of Mr. Vogee is effective July 1, according to a school board decision. A report by Dr. Johns was a basis for the board's ruling, which involved administration at Mount Newton High.

Questioned by Victor Dryer, counsel for the principal, Dr. Johns yesterday expressed agreement with a suggestion that a principal of Mount Newton would have to spend more than five periods in six days on administration, apart from supervision.

"Yes, if the work is to be done between 9 and 3," Dr. Johns said. He added that time required in administration depends upon people.

He later agreed with counsel that office arrangements were not good in the school but added that a person adjusts to conditions.

BETTER FILING

Questioned about specific suggestions in his report to the board, Dr. Johns explained a call for a better filing system of school tests.

He said he found tests loose in a file of a staff room. He also found records of individual students loose in a pile that contained new and used sandpaper, an old school bell and other papers.

The Daily Colonist erroneously referred to Mount View high school teachers being involved in the Mount Newton high school administration inquiry in yesterday's editions. Teachers involved were solely from Mount Newton.

Asked if he knew that Mr. Vogee was on probation from about May until December, 1955, Dr. Johns said the word "probation" was never used in an announcement to the school staff by School Trustee Mrs. H. J. Macdonald.

On May 5 she announced to the Mount Newton staff that "a thorough inspection had been made."

She said "Vogee told the board he felt he could make changes the board wanted by Christmas," Dr. Johns said.

He described his recollection of her words as almost verbatim, noting that the trustee never used "probation."

The afternoon session was largely concerned with timetable difficulties in the school.

Tomatoes Need Steady Moisture

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

One of the jobs I am planning to get done this coming week-end is to set out tomato plants. I have about a dozen plants of Early Bush Beefsteak and half a dozen Fargo Yellow Pear to go in, and for the past week I have been setting them outside in the sun all day to become acclimatized to outdoor living, taking them in at night.

The one thing a tomato plant demands above all others is a steady, continuous supply of moisture. It doesn't need a lot of water, but what it needs, it must have in a steady, never interrupted supply.

A fluctuating moisture supply —dry soil one day and plenty of water the next — makes for tough skins and cracked and misshapen fruits, plus a lot of other tomato troubles.

RESERVE SUPPLY

One way of ensuring this small but steady supply of soil moisture is to put a reserve supply well down under the plant when it is set out, allowing it to filter up through the soil to the roots throughout the summer. This is the way I do it:

I take out a planting hole some 15 inches deep and a foot across. Then I soak some peat moss in a bucket of water, and put a big double handful in the bottom of the hole.

Ordinarily, peat moss should be in just a nicely damp state, but for this particular purpose it should be soggy wet—really sodden and dripping. It helps, too, to add a little soluble fertilizer to the water in which the peat is soaked—about two tablespoonfuls of Liqui-Life or Old Gardener to the gallon.

The soil is filled in over this squelchy mass of peat moss until the hole is of normal planting depth—about two inches deeper than the plants were originally, as indicated by the soil marks on their stems. The roots are set in place, and the hole partially filled in using a mixture of soil, bone meal, and a little of the just-damp peat moss.

THIN IT OUT

At this point, the plants are watered in. You can use the same fertilizer solution that served for soaking the peat moss, but thinned out to half its previous strength, and a teaspoonful of Epsom salts and a couple of drops of vitamin B1 added.

Give each plant about three cups of the mixture, pouring it in around the roots slowly. This firms the soil around the roots and establishes a moisture bridge between the roots and the reserve supply away down below. Then the filling in is completed with loose, dry soil.

No firming of the surface soil is necessary or desirable—firming the top layer only causes the soil to bake and crack in the sun. Moreover, the loose soil around the stem often induces the tomato plant to put out another set of feeding roots farther up the stem than the original roots, and a double set of roots, of course, gives the plant a greater feeding capacity.

If you can arrange it, give your tomato plants a litle shade for the first couple of days, just until they settle down in their new home.

Commons Hushed

Grisly Bone Pile Crash Aftermath

OTTAWA (BUP)—A mass of charred bones in an Ottawa funeral parlor was the grisly aftermath last night of a blazing holocaust, less than 24 hours before, in which 15 persons died.

The bones were the remains of about eight of the 11 Grey Nuns of the Holy Cross who perished in the funeral pyre of their country convalescent home after a Canadian jet fighter plane streaked into it, engines aflame and rockets exploding.

A provincial police spokesman said he believed other gruesome remains sifted from the debris where the plane struck

Police said they could not positively identify any of the remains. Some of the bones also could be the remains of the woman cook at the home, the Villa St. Louis, eight miles east of Ottawa.

A priest also died. His body was found slumped on the grass outside the chapel. The exploding plane had blown him about 20 yards out of the building.

Funeral officials had laid out the assorted bones as reverently as they could in a special room at the parlor. They were waiting to match the bones and ascertain how many people they represented.

The bones were then placed in separate caskets and taken to the mother house of the destroyed retreat where they would rest until funeral services Saturday.

In the commons yesterday, a hushed and almost reverent house expressed shock and sympathy for victims of the air-ground crash.

"It is cause for profound sorrow that this accident has taken the lives of so many selfless members of the religious vocation, and two members of a service whose mission is to do everything within its power, by day and night, to provide security for the Canadian way of life," said Defence Minister Ralph Campney.

Korea Elects Rhee Again

SEOUL (AP) — Doughty old Syngmau Rhee has won his expected third term as South Korea's president, but strong opposition cut his vote to only about 55 per cent of the total ballots cast in Tuesday's election.

The 81 - year - old Conservative, South Korea's only president since the republic was established in 1948, polled 72.6 per cent of the total vote in the 1952 election.

In the separate vice-presidential ballots, Rhee's running mate, Lee Ki Poong, today was trailing the Democratic party candidate, Chang Myun.

Successful British A-Explosion May Be Trigger for H-Bomb

ONSLOW, West Australia (Reuters)—A British atom device exploded off the Australian coast on the Monte Bello islands Wednesday is believed to have been a trigger for a hydrogen bomb.

The intense heat of what appeared to be a relatively small weapon points to development of such a trigger. Two factors are necessary for an H-bomb trigger—smallness and great heat.

Britain announced some time ago it was going ahead with development of a hydrogen weapon and the latest detonation is believed to have been preliminary to a future H-bomb test.

Observers with the British atomic test fleet believe British scientists now have reached the stage where they can stockpile atomic weapons.

The explosion "burned" a half-square-mile crater in the sand and scrub growth, fusing all into a dark glasslike substance, and it melted the tower on which it was exploded.

Heat from the explosion seared the backs of correspondents' necks as they faced away from the bomb to avoid blindness from staring at the rifeball.

Beloved 'Father Dick' Victim of Jet Crash

REV. RICHARD M. WARD

Rev. Richard M. Ward of Toronto, one of the victims of the Orleans jet crash, was one of the finest chaplains ever to serve on the Pacific Coast.

So said one of his best friends, Padre Horatio Todd, HMCS Naden chaplain, last night.

"Father Dick" was Pacific Command chaplain from January, 1952, until September, 1954.

KOREA TOGETHER

"We went to Korea together in 1950 and he was much appreciated," said Padre Todd.

"He was a very fine man and his death is a great loss."

At the time of his death, Father Ward, 42, had been an assistant Roman Catholic chaplain of the fleet since September, 1954.

Daily Colonist photographer Jim Ryan said: "Just seems like yesterday that I was sitting in the messdeck aboard HMCS Magnificent having a yarn with Father Dick. He was one of the most respected men I ever met in the navy." Mr. Ryan was a Navy photographer in those days.

"He was always so natural and cool, no matter how difficult anyone's problem seemed to be," Mr. Ryan said.

Compulsory Amalgamation?

CONSIDERATION of proposals for the amalgamation or federation of the municipalities of Greater Victoria may take a new turn as a result of a statement made in Vancouver a few days ago indicative of the provincial government's views on the subject. Whereas hitherto the Province has refrained from intervening either here or in Vancouver, there is a strong hint that the new municipal act now being drafted may contain power for the government to require municipalities to consolidate if the best interests of all concerned warrant such an extreme step. There are many people who have come to the belief that amalgamation of Greater Victoria never will be brought about by any other means, though the findings of the recent independent survey conducted here may throw some new light on the issue.

Disclosure of the government's possible intentions came about during a meeting of the metropolitan committee of mayors and reeves of the Greater Vancouver area where, as in Victoria, there has as yet been no close approach to agreement on the question of seeking metropolitan status. The Vancouver Province reports that Mr. J. E. Brown, deputy minister of municipal affairs, was asked if the British Columbia government might feel compelled to order the municipalities to federate, and that the deputy minister answered "yes."

This could be a most significant turn of events, but not without precedent in Canada. In the case of Toronto, where deliberation on the issue of federation dragged on inconclusively for years, the Ontario government felt impelled to step in and take the authority which now appears to be contemplated for British Columbia. As Mr. Brown did not elaborate, it is too early to know precisely what may be in mind.

Metropolitan consolidation can take more than one form. Instead of outright amalgamation with all functions placed under a single local body, it could take the form of federation leaving existing municipalities with autonomy in certain spheres, as established by Toronto's two-tier system. In this way the distinctive character of the components could be preserved even though they surrendered authority to a superior council in matters to do with essential and commonly shared services such as police, fire protection, water, health, sewerage and so forth.

For the sake of good will if nothing else, voluntary consolidation in Greater Victoria would be preferable to union enforced from above. If the writing is indeed on the wall in the form of new provisions in the provincial statute, that fact may have an important influence on thinking at the local level.

Cheaper Air Travel

MOST airline progress is reported in terms of new and faster planes and the commendable desire to cut the hours spent in the air. Time is valuable as a business commodity and undoubtedly great strides are being made to speed up air travel. What lags behind by contrast however is a downward trend in fares to match the upward trend in speed. This could be no less important to the success of any airline. Many people in fact would rest content with speeds of slower aircraft if the cost of travelling in them were reduced. Particularly is this the case where time is not so essential a factor, as with vacationists on pleasure travel.

Nowhere perhaps is cheap air travel more sought than in connection with trans-Atlantic journeys. Tens of thousands of Canadians are expected to visit Great Britain this summer, for instance, and a considerable proportion of them will travel by air. It is probably safe to say that double the number would result if the fares were cut substantially. Some attempts are being made in the U.S.A. to make international travel cheaper and therefore more accessible to a vast number of potential patrons, but unfortunately the airlines are not free to set their own rates. If they were air travel would be even more popular than it is at present.

The hurdle takes the form of what might be called a cartel, the international air association which regulates such travel. No member airline, and all the principal lines of necessity belong to the ruling body, may change its trans-Atlantic fares without permission of the association and of their governments. They are deprived also of unilateral action by fear lest landing rights may be withdrawn, since airports have not reached the free stage of seaports. An international regulatory body is of course essential for the orderly control of world-wide flying operations but the present sticky attitude with respect to cheaper fares would seem to hold back a great increase in air travel. Happily some signs are reported that easement of this kind may be effected in the comparatively near future. If trans-Atlantic air fares were really cheap more planes than birds might even cross the ocean.

Wisdom with Learning

AS far back as the first decades of the seventeenth century the debate as to what constitutes education has been exercising men's minds. In the eighteenth century—one of hard-fact realism—scientific instruction was in the ascendancy and that which is represented by the liberal arts had to struggle for its existence. Today, two centuries later, there is the same contest; spurred this time by the suddent thrust for scientific and technological advance. The liberal arts are feeling the pinch, and yet it is expressly through them that a broader learning and perhaps wisdom are nourished.

Dean H. F. Angus, honored by the award of an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the current convocation of the University of British Columbia, touched on the unfinished debate in the course of a thoughtful address in which he observed:

"My defence of a liberal education is that it is not planned for a foretold future but designed to enable man to adopt himself to whatever the future may bring. It can be an end in itself, but it can also be the basis for the highest achievement in specialized research and for the most distinguished professional careers. If you prefer to think of the future as something which you and your contemporaries will shape and mould, then my belief is that technical knowledge and professional skill are not enough for your purpose and that they must be supplemented by a serious cultivation of the minds of men, cultivation which should begin but should not end in our universities."

That was well said. It puts in perspective the need for acquirements beyond mere specialization in a machine age; for breadth of understanding and the eventual wisdom which should be the goal of all learning.

Interpreting the News

Uncompromising Nationalist

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

INDONESIA'S President Soekarno, although this is his first visit, is probably better known in the United States than any other chief of an under-developed nation except Nehru of India and Rhee of South Korea.

Soekarno, like the other two, has been the leader of his country's fight for independence for 30 years.

His feelings about the Dutch are very strong, and are likely to extend themselves to anyone who associates with the Dutch.

That is why he has been suspicious and fearful of the United States, despite the important influence of this country on the final independence agreement. Soekarno and a vast proportion of informed Indonesians felt American economic aid to the Netherlands after the war had prolonged the Dutch ability to hold on in the islands.

After independence, Indonesia was afraid of America. Some American promoters displayed a strong desire for exploitation. Indonesians were not prepared merely to substitute American control of their economic interests for the British-Dutch hegemony. American economic aid was refused.

There seems to be a slightly better atmosphere now, which Secretary Dulles is anxious to nurture through the Soekarno visit. Indonesia has accepted some American aid, and as the projects work out, suspicion is somewhat allayed. Soekarno has indicated willingness to go farther now.

He also would like American support for his claim to Dutch-held territory in New Guinea. The state department has shown no sign of retreating from its neutral position on that.

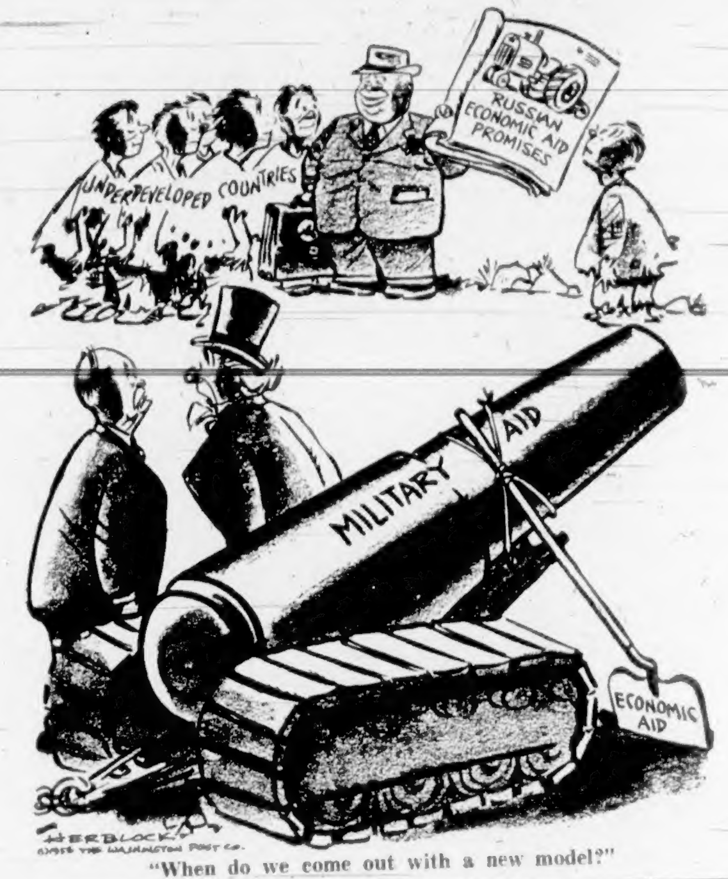
Soekarno is a nationalist of the first water. He heads a young nation composed of a number of quite dissimilar peoples, many of whom have no national feelings.

They are scattered over Java, one of the world's most densely populated spots, Sumatra and neighboring islands. Soekarno constantly campaigns among them for unity.

A key to his character may be found in his relations with the Japanese during the war. He saw them as a means of prying loose the hold of the Dutch. He co-operated with them to that extent, relying upon post-war developments to get rid of the Japanese, too.

Since independence he has accepted Communist political help presumably with the same viewpoint.

The opinion he forms while in the United States will be balanced later against those he gets on a visit to Russia. The net result may have a far-reaching effect on the future of all Southeast Asia. Soekarno is only 55.



"When do we come out with a new model?"

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax — of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

MAN may not change much, as was suggested here yesterday, but the words he uses certainly do. The dictionary does its best to hold the line but it fights a losing battle.

People speak before they write, you see.

It is not words themselves, though, that are intriguing so much as their application. In course of time they are given all sorts of curious and delightful meanings.

What could be more entertaining, for instance, than the word "stump," which can indicate the earth-end of a tree, a heavy step, a stick one knocks down with a ball, a challenge, or an impromptu type of oratory.

Although pity the poor newcomer to the English language when he runs up against such a miscellany.

People are never stumped, then—to employ this term is yet another guise—by lack of words. Either they invent new ones or put a new dress on old ones.

* * *

Churchill, not surprisingly in such a literary master, does precisely this in his recent history of the English-speaking peoples. In citing the forays of a certain king he refers to his "piebald fortunes." This is an unusual use of piebald, usually associated with the color of a horse, but perfectly clear in its hint of ups-and-downs.

One drawback to the easy transfer of words, however, is that they may be seized on as though they were a new discovery and never left alone. Three that come readily to mind are functional, streamline and freewheel, apt almost to qualify as jargon.

Functional itself for instance has come to be what might be called a functional word, greatly in favor in building circles. We are told repeatedly nowadays that such-and-such a house or hall or building of any kind is "functional," supposedly a fresh virtue, when there never was a house or hall that didn't have inherent purpose. The earliest home of a caveman was as functional as the latest twentieth-century design. Architecture could really do with a different adjective.

* * *

Streamline is another handy term, originally for smoothing the bumps that offered air resistance, as with ships and automobiles, but now applied equally to feminine figures and the reshuffling of an office set-up. The connection is sometimes tenuous, although apt enough in the matter of milday's contours.

She, poor soul, is the victim of fate betwixt the streamlined persuasions of fancy confections and reducing diets.

To freewheel is equally interesting. Once this meant only to coast, its North American variant, on a bicycle; a saving of the legs. Now it can be the flowing performance of a team on ice skates, poetry in motion without stops. Presumably also an uninhibited extrovert who lives with abandon is a freewheeler.

Freewheeling in fact is what has come over the English language, which is adapted in piebald fashion to suit every need and whim. I suppose the truth is we tire of coining too many new words and prefer instead to revamp our old ones by making them versatile.

And a very attractive habit this is too.

On the Record

Unfulfilled Hopes

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE West has perhaps failed worst in finding homes and opportunities for those individuals who have chosen freedom.

Millions have been spent on propaganda beamed across the Iron Curtain extolling the advantages of life in the free world. Thousands of persons, finding themselves out of reach of the Communists, have chosen to remain where they were, or inspired by hope of a better life, have fled westward at the risk of their lives.

The pull of the West, thus factually demonstrated, has been an enormous propaganda asset. But there was always the certainty that it would explode back in Western faces if those who thus chose the West found no humanly tolerable status and, disillusioned, should choose to return.

The West, therefore, has had since the beginning of the rift with the East the real and practical problem of how to make good on its humanistic claims.

Effective propaganda is deeds, not words. It was not enough to refuse to repatriate men and women against their will. It has always been necessary to sustain that will by united and effective organization to move these human beings from death into life.

This does not exist. From the end of the war until this moment, thousands of anti-Communists have been rotting away their lives in camps, finding only sporadic employment, men and women without a country, initially buoyed by faith, eventually falling into despair, the flotsam and jetsam of hope betrayed.

* * *

Now, with a new breeze blowing through the Communist world since the death of Stalin, the Communist states have opened a systematic organized campaign: "Come home—all is forgiven."

This campaign extends even to those refugees who have founded new existences abroad including the United States. For such the Communist appeal is futile. But it is powerful among those who, after many years, are still homeless and herded. So the trek is turning in the opposite direction.

Those lost refugees are in West Germany and Austria. One cannot blame either country for failing to absorb them. The federal republic has had to absorb nearly 10,000,000 Germans from lost territories or long-established German settlements in the East.

Austria, a small country, until recently occupied by four armies, and burdened for another generation by reparations to Russia, has difficulty in meeting the economic needs of her own people.

Theoretically, the problem is in the hands of the "Inter-Governmental Committee for European Migration." But those familiar with the operations of such committees know their bureaucratic ineffectiveness, and their practical limitations.

These refugees could only have been transported by a dynamic Western policy, working out a grand scheme, cutting red tape, realizing that the problem was both humane and political, and giving it high priority.

For the basic ideological thesis of the West, on which it stands or falls, is the superior claim of the individual upon life, liberty and happiness. But it is precisely in this area that Western civilization has been proving most bankrupt of ideas and action.

Our capacity to deal with material things is amazing. Our capacity to deal with human bodies and souls is feeble. We find it easier to solve the problem of nuclear fission than to know what to do with unwanted fellow-men, who, being living creatures, cannot be stockpiled or put into a deep freeze.

The New York Times reported last week from West Germany the increasingly typical case of Sasha Likhonovich, a Soviet army deserter. He has chosen to go home in full realization that he is probably in for a term in a labor camp. He prefers the prospect to his present alien, aimless and hopeless condition. To be wanted by his own country even as a slave is, to his mind, better than to live as a useless, unwanted alien.

Can disillusion go farther?

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

THE first of May last I dropped in on a business friend of mine who was on the telephone. He smiled me into a chair with a nod.

"Hello, Joe!" he cried into the phone, giving his name familiarly to the person he had called. "Say, those potatoes you sent us yesterday were the best I've tasted in years. My wife baked them, and, man, were they something!"

He made a few more pleasant remarks, and then hung up.

"What's all this?" I checked.

"It's New Month's Day," replied my friend. "My first call. I celebrate the first of each month with a few telephone calls like that. That was my grocer I called. He sent us some potatoes yesterday, along with the other groceries."

"So?"

"Well, the first of every month I think up somebody who looks after me—maybe the garage mechanic, the milk man, the cop, the postman—and I give them a ring and thank them for something they've recently done for me. Wait a minute. I'll show you."

He consulted the telephone numbers flipper on his desk and dialed a number. It was a florist.

"Hello? This is So-and-So. Who made up that bouquet you sent for me to Mrs. Barker a couple of days ago? You did, eh? Well, young lady, I just called up to congratulate you. That was the prettiest bowl of flowers I've seen in a long time. It was by far the nicest thing in Mrs. Barker's hospital room. I just wanted to thank you . . ."

He made two more calls before I could stop him, one to his dentist to tell him how perfectly the bridge was fitting that the dentist had put in two months before; and one to the newspaper office just to pass on to the early morning delivery boy a word of thanks for the way the boy put the paper close to the door on these rainy mornings.

"What the heck?" I protested.

"I figure," said my friend, "that one Thanksgiving Day a year isn't enough. I give thanks to God every day. But there are a lot of people I like to thank too. So the first of each month I pick out a different bunch and give them a hail. I call it New Month's Day. It makes me feel good. I hope it makes them feel good too."

I kind of think it does.

Reports From Ottawa

CANADA'S rather impressive record as an exporter of military aircraft is building up speculation that this country may become an important factor in supplying world demand for this commodity.

But according to Foreign Minister Pearson, this ain't necessarily so. As a matter of fact, Pearson told me, quite the opposite is the case at the present time: Canada is trying to stay out of this market.

The world market for arms is packed with plenty of political dynamite, both for the government's relations with the voters and the country's relations with other nations. So the government has been leaning over backwards in this matter since the Harvards-for-Egypt imbroglio. It is still sitting on a two-months-old Israeli request for 24 F-86 Sabre jet fighters, and in the last year has discouraged a half dozen incipient bids for Canadian jets.

Pearson didn't disclose which countries were involved, but he explained that the approaches were tentative and unofficial, being made for the most part through international arms dealers in Rome. In face of the promise of a cold reception in Ottawa, none was pushed to the status of an official offer to buy.

* * *

Sabre jets for export come from two sources: RCAF stocks, and from the manufacturer, Canadair Ltd. of Montreal. Nearly 500 have been made available to foreign states in the last three years, mainly as gifts of the Canadian government under the Mutual Aid Program.

Thus Britain was supplied with more than 300, and 164 went to Greece and Turkey along with a small number of T-33 jet trainers.

In addition Canadair has sold 34 Sabres to South Africa. The sale amounted to $9,000,000, for the going price of an F-86 is about a quarter of a million.

* * *

Export sales of military jets are under strict government control. The government's stated policy is to refuse to sanction such sales when they might increase international tensions. This is the consideration holding up approval of the Israeli order, although as Pearson informed a parliamentary committee April 17, the U.S., Britain and France have indicated they would have no objections to the sale.

"It may be a good thing to sell them a few planes in the interests of stability, but we haven't decided yet," Pearson told me.

He readily admitted that there will soon be a substantial surplus of Sabres as the RCAF progresses in its switch to CF-100. He also noted that "we want to keep our aircraft factories going," but as a corollary to that he stated that "we want to keep out of the arms business."

If the government had no compunctions, not only Sabres but CF-100s as well would be streaming out of plane plants at Montreal and Toronto on foreign orders. The RCAF now has more CF-100s than it can handle. For example, 50 are stockpiled at Lethbridge.

The U.K. and the U.S. have borrowed a few CF-100s for evaluation tests, but this $500,000 Canadian aircraft isn't available to anyone else. The fact that one costs as much as two Sabres probably would dissuade many countries from buying, but there are some nations like Israel which would snap up CF-100s at almost any price if they could be had.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

A recent survey comes up with the finding that the average family consists of 3.6 persons, which isn't as silly as it looks. The .6, of course, is the teen-age son who is in love and only about half there.

Two drinkers were sitting at the bar when one said, "Let's go home."

"Okay," said the other, "shall we go to your house or my house?"

"Heck," said the first, "if you're going to quibble about it, forget the whole thing."

The farmer told his visitor that most of the men working in a field were ex-soldiers.

"Oh, really! All privates, I suppose?"

"Well, as a matter of fact they aren't," said the farmer. "There are one or two privates. One of them was a corporal. Then there's a major and a colonel."

"Dear me! All good men?"

"Well, the privates are pretty good on the whole and the corporal isn't too bad. The major's so-so."

"And the colonel?"

The farmer hesitated. "I'm not going to say anything against a man who has been a colonel in the army; but I've made up my mind that whatever happens I'm not going to hire any generals."

Letters to the Editor

Leave Them Alone

About that man who spoke of the old-age pensioners drinking: where does he get that idea, and the suggestion of having an organization take over their pensions and give out what they wish to give them, taking away their last freedom.

Leave the old people alone. Let them do as they wish with the little bit they have. By the time they pay rent, food and a stitch to their backs they have not much left to drink.

I know doctors tell the old people to have a little glass of spirits before retiring at night. It helps them. That is in the Old Country, so leave the old people alone and give them a little joy and happiness in the evening of their days.

I must thank Mr. Hooson at the city welfare for turning it down. This is a free country and we live under the British flag and long may it flutter in the breeze and may God bless all the old people. My motto is: live and let live.

Open Stores Earlier

It would be a great convenience and mean perhaps more business for many of the stores here if they would open at 8.30 instead of 9 a.m., and close at 5 instead of 5.30. A case in point, there is a certain jewelery store in town which opens its doors at 8.30 (if not with a full staff). I was in there one morning at 8.45 and there were several customers availing themselves of this quiet early morning time to make their purchases.

As most of the business buses arrive before 8.30 and some offices do not open till 9 it would give an opportunity for shopping to be done at this convenient hour. Why not some of the larger stores trying this and seeing how the public respond?

Why Not Bonds?

Regarding the stupendous undertaking of the proposed gas pipeline, the Canadian government, through the National Bank of Canada, could surely arrange to place bonds on the market in the interest of and favorable to Canadians, British and French investors, rather than making what they describe as a "government" loan which so misleads the general run of the public, although many know full well and understand that one just substitutes the word "taxpayer" for that of government. . . .

Japan's Van Gogh

Kiyoshi Yamashita, a 34-year-old mentally retarded Japanese whose mental growth ceased when he was in third grade, is today being acclaimed as Japan's Van Gogh. Most of his works are done in "hari-e" art, produced by pasting pieces of colored paper on a cardboard, but in recent years he has switched to oil painting. Dr. Ryuzaburo-Shikiba, Yamashita's psychiatrist, said, "In everything except art, Yamashita remains an 11-year-old boy.—(CPC)

Pension Boost Plea Carries 2,425 Names

A petition asking for a $25 increase in old-age pensions will have well in excess of 3,000 signatures of senior citizens on it when it is sent to Ottawa, William J. Hyde, organizer of the petition, said last night.

Mr. Hyde said there were about 2,425 signatures on the petition at a desk just inside the main doors of city hall.

He will leave a copy of the petition at city hall for the remainder of the week for additional signatures. Signatures collected by church and other groups have not all been handed in yet, he said, and undoubtedly will swell the total beyond the 3,000-mark.

Keep Death Off Highways Holiday Drivers Warned

B.C. appears to be heading for a bad traffic accident year.

Some 15 more persons died on provincial highways during the first three months of 1956 than during the same period a year ago.

Motor vehicle branch superintendent George Lindsay yesterday asked motorists to "take it easy" over the coming holiday weekend.

"Most accidents are caused not by mechanical defects but by men and women behind the wheel," he said.

FEWER ACCIDENTS

Statistics for the first three months of the year show actual accidents declined although injuries and deaths increased.

There were 5,685 accidents, a drop of 175 from last year, 1,752 injuries, an increase of 121, and 41 deaths, up 15.

Mr. Lindsay listed seven basic safety rules:

Observe speed limits and slow down even more than required by law when roads are slippery or crowded.

Remember fatigue is an accident factor and don't try to pile up too great a mileage in one day.

To combat fatigue and remain alert, stop every two hours or so to stretch your muscles and drink a helpful stimulant. Alcohol is a depressant, not a stimulant.

Avoid cocktails and other alcoholic beverages before or during a drive.

Be careful of the other driver. Obey all traffic rules.

Be considerate and indulgent towards other drivers.

And lastly, relax.

"If all drivers were to obey these rules Canada would celebrate its first accident-free week-end of the summer season," said Mr. Lindsay.

Island Drama Festival Opens With Wealth of Good Acting

By BERT BINNY

The finals of the Vancouver Island Drama Festivals opened last night at Oak Bay junior high school. Selected entrants, who will present nine plays by the close of Friday evening, are zone winners from the northern, central and southern island.

First on the program was Port Alberni's presentation of Elda Cadogan's farce, "The Invisible Worm."

Catherine Bogden, as "Tracy," almost burlesqued the farce so energetically did she play her role. Sometimes her climaxes were lost and she appeared often to have spent her vast energy too soon.

Walter Dahlquist's "Paul" sometimes lacked force, but it requires no inconsiderable degree of projection to put over the type of bugaboo with which the script provided him.

Peter Campbell as "Dr. Eric Johnston" provided a most welcome measure of sanity and assurance by playing the straight man effectively and with restraint.

The staging was entirely adequate, except for the mirror which reflected off-stage figures — interesting, but not in keeping with the best theatrical traditions.

Next came "Hello, Out There," a production by the Victoria Art Gallery Intimate Stage. This polished performance, contrasting vividly with the previous production, was a drama incessantly being rescued from the murky depths of sordidness by the rather inexplicable loveliness of one character.

ABLE ACTRESS

This character, "The Girl," was admirably played by Margaret Martin, an actress of no small ability. A. R. Nicholson as "The Young Man", also gave a fine performance.

Bob Freeland appeared as "The Man," filling the role in the place of the original player, and filling it to complete satisfaction.

Yellow Point's "The Mayor of Torontal" completed the program with a superb example of correct speed.

While all the characters were excellent this was very much a director's triumph.

Festival Audience Gets Musical Treat

The second Mozart Festival concert took place yesterday evening at Victoria high school, maintaining in every respect the high standard which characterized the first in the series a week ago.

Conducting the symphony chamber orchestra was Clifford Evens and the soloists were Gertrude Huntly-Green, pianist, Corol McCartney, violin, and Hans Stelzner, French horn.

Gertrude Huntly-Green gave a delightful performance of the Concerto in A-Major for Piano and Orchestra.

For sheer musicianship and feeling her performance left nothing to be desired; it was sustained throughout the three movements, allegro, andante and the exciting presto.

Corol McCartney's artistry on the violin was always in evidence as she provided the solo part in the Concerto in G-Major. This was a refreshing, yet hauntingly beautiful interlude.

Perhaps there are not too many compositions for instruments suc has the French horn but very little in the line of musical composition escaped treatment by the prolific Mozart.

The audience also enjoyed the musical treat provided by Hans Stelzner in Mozart's concerto for French horn and Orchestra in E-Flat.

Throughout all the solo performances, sustained musicianship and lovely phrasings were predominant.

Dr. Anne Steel Still Unchanged

Condition of Dr. Anne Steel, critically injured in a riding accident near Osoyoos 11 days ago, was described as unchanged by St. Joseph's hospital officials late last night.

Westminster Abbey in London in 1965 will celebrate the 900th anniversary of its founding.

How to Prevent Toothaches!

"Have all your sound teeth removed to prevent aches! How terrible, that toothache should invade an epicure in times of feasting; a beauty at a ball; a bridegroom on his nuptial night! Have them all out! Prevents biting, grinning, snarling and showing of teeth!" So urged an advertisement in an early American newspaper, about the time of dentist Paul Revere.

Your modern dentist believes in conservation, but, in fact there is a stage in the breakdown of gums and bone around teeth, when nothing more can be done to save them. Then, the sooner you part with them, the more friendly and useful the replacements (dentures) will be. After healing, bone of the jaws with its covering of gums will be firmer, more rounded, instead of flabby and shifting. There'll be less movement of dentures—less tendency to skid when chewing food.

In Paul Revere's time, they had them all out, and "gummed it" while waiting for bone and soft tissues to heal. But now, people refuse to appear in public showing toothless gums, and object to eating baby food while waiting for dentures.

So, back teeth are removed first, leaving only six upper and six lower in front. When the broad back bearing surfaces have healed, dentures are made. Now, the remaining front teeth are removed, and the dentures inserted at the same sitting. Painful?

A deep open wound on other surfaces of the body would be bandaged, and a rigid, protective cover might be applied to prevent pressure on the open wound. In the mouth, what better protection than the denture or rigid material, preventing pressure on tender areas, and even carrying a healing liquid or paste, if your dentist believes it advisable?

Keep those natural teeth as long as possible, but when your time comes, let the parting be brief and prompt.

Bands, Queens, Clowns, Horsemen All Part of Victoria Day Parade

More Than 100 Units To Compete for Prizes

Bands of all sizes, columns of marching men, clowns on foot and in cars, beauty queens, smart-stepping horses, rickety old cars and floats of every description—that's the colorful Victoria Day parade Monday.

Greater Victoria Celebrations Association disclosed yesterday that more than 100 separate units will take part in the parade. Most will compete for a total of more than $1,150 in prizes.

Some of the color will be seen in advance at the annual pageant in Royal Athletic park at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The parade, which will take more than an hour to pass any one point, leaves Cook and Pembroke at 10 a.m. and travels on Cook, Pandora, Quadra, Yates, Douglas, Fisgard and Government to dispersal in the government parking lot.

An idea of the variety is given in a list of the bands—Victoria Boys, Western Washington College, Shrine, Eagles' buglers, Central junior high school, Oak Bay schools, Victoria Girls' pipers, Rainbow sea cadets and S. J. Willis junior high school.

LOTS OF CLOWNS

There'll be clowns in singles, in pairs, in trios and in cars. There'll be old cars and Oak Bay will contrast a new $13,000 garbage truck with a 1900-vintage dump cart with horses.

Vancouver's PNE and New Westminster have sent floats, and other floats or cars are provided by such groups as the Fuller Brush Co., square dancers, football and soccer players, Lions, Heatherbelle Kennels and Glad Tidings Sunday School.

Miss Victoria, Miss Esquimalt, Miss Government Employees' Association and Miss Port Townsend, Wash., are expected to be in the parade. Port Townsend and Washington state will also send drill teams and baton twirlers, and Bluebird majorettes of Victoria will go through their paces.

Horsemen are from the Victoria Western Horsemen's Association and Colwood Trail Riders. Bonnie Stewart, 14, 1732 Kings, plans to ride a horse bareback along the route.

ARMED FORCES

Armed forces take their traditional place at the head of the parade. Attorney-General R. W. Bonner takes their salute from the saluting base on Pandora, near Cook.

Association officials said floats and cars must be at Jimmy Little's store on Pandora by 8.15 a.m. and all other entrants must be at hand by 9.15 a.m.

Another parade will be held Saturday, when Marilynne Dawson, Miss Victoria, is escorted from Yates and Cook along Yates and Government to the legislative buildings for her crowning as May queen. Shrine and Seattle Eagles' bands will provide music for the ceremony, at about 7.45 p.m.

HMCS Naden band and acrobatic display will open the pageant program, which includes bands, drill teams, dancers, trained dogs and motorcyclists from Victoria, Seattle and Port Townsend. Units must be in place by 1.55 p.m.

In Freight Rates

Railways To Ask 15-Per-Cent Hike

OTTAWA (CP) — The board of transport commissioners will open hearings June 11 on application by Canadian railways for a general 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

The application, filed Wednesday by the Railway Association of Canada, also seeks an increase of 25 cents a ton coal and coke to be applied as far as possible to intra-Canadian tolls and rates.

The rate increase sought by the railways, is designed to offset wage boosts and fringe benefits to 150,000 non-operating employees and increased operating costs of the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways.

The association filed the application following company and union approval of a conciliation board report recommending an 11-per-cent wage increase spread over the next 14 months in a two-year contract.

The railways said payment of the increased wages and fringe benefits to non-operating employees will increase operating expenses of the CPR and the CNR by $28,600,000 for 1956.

On the basis of expected 1956 traffic, the application, said, the rate increases would yield the two railways $46,800,000 annually, with $19,200,000 going to the CPR and $27,600,000 to the CNR.

This was expected to cover the 11 per cent wage increase and higher material costs experienced since the last general freight rate increase in 1953. But it would not be sufficient to meet increased costs resulting from any wage increases to the running trades and further boosts in material costs this year.

Application Rejected

Former Forest Ministers Won't Be 'Invited' to Probe

Application to have former ministers of lands and forests R. E. Sommers and E. T. Kenney "invited" to testify before the Sloan royal commission on forestry was rejected by Chief Justice Gordon Sloan yesterday.

He said the matters of government policy were "not the concern of the courts nor of a tribunal of this nature" and that there was no further information the ex-ministers could provide on the administrative aspects of their portfolios.

"I do not feel free to extend an invitation to Mr. Kenney or Mr. Sommers to give evidence concerning matters of governmental policy during their tenure of office," said the chief justice in delivering his reserved decision.

The move to have the two former ministers called was sparked by former Liberal MLA Gordon Gibson who urged that Mr. Sommers be summonsed to testify.

He later withdrew this motion in favor of one by counsel for two small logging concerns who suggested that both men be "invited" to appear.

Mr. Sommers, currently engaged in a libel and slander suit in connection with the awarding of forest management licences, resigned from the Social Credit government earlier this year.

Mr. Kenney was minister from 1947 to 1952.

Decision not to have the two men testify on government policy, said Chief Justice Sloan, was guided by several court decisions which state a minister is not subject "to the supervision or interference of any court or other power except the legislature.

"That leaves for consideration the administrative field," he said.

"It seems to me that every departmental head, from the deputy minister down, has been called, questioned, and made available for the most searching cross-examination on these matters," he continued. "I do not see that ex-ministers . . . could give us any further information on administration."

Chief Justice Sloan said he would be prepared to reconsider his ruling if it could be shown that matters purely administrative in character could not be answered by forest service officials.

$1,250,000 Centenary Grants Set

Grants to provincial communities to help stage celebrations in connection with the B.C. Centennial in 1958 will cost the provincial government up to $1,250,000.

If Greater Victoria municipalities agree to terms proposed by the provincial government, $200,000 will be spent in this area.

News of the grants was released yesterday by L. J. Wallace, chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee.

Two separate grants will be made to all centres that establish local centennial celebration committees.

FORTY CENTS EACH

The sum of 40 cents per person will be placed at the disposal of each community or area to be administered by such a committee as an aid to meeting the expenses of the local celebration.

This grant will be made available at the beginning of next fiscal year in April, 1957.

A further grant, not exceeding 60 cents per capita, will be given to those communities who submit a plan for lasting memorials to be constructed in their areas and who are willing to match the grant dollar for dollar.

"This could be a hospital wing, for instance," said Mr. Wallace.

The per capita grants will be based upon the 1956 census.

In organized areas municipal councils are responsible for appointing the local centennial celebrations committee.

In the case of unorganized areas, local committees may be elected at public meetings attended by representatives of the B.C. committee or consultants of the community programs branch.

"Communities in close proximity will be urged to pool their efforts both in their celebrations and in the use of such grants as they may receive," said Mr. Wallace.

Two Students Having Swim Meet Death

SEATTLE (AP)—Two University of Washington students were drowned in Green lake Tuesday afternoon as several persons stood by thinking they were "playing around."

The victims were Fred E. Laing Jr., 24, Puyallup, Wash., and Richard F. Bartlett, 23, of Calgary. Both were engineering students.

A witness said Bartlett began going up and down in the water as he swam to a raft. Laing, who had reached the float, slipped back into the water and apparently went to the aid of Bartlett.

Unique Banking Method Doesn't Pay

Service station employee William R. Fowler, 840 Bay, did company banking by his own method.

He pleaded guilty in Saanich court yesterday to theft of $459 in cash and cheques on Tuesday.

Police said he was given the money to bank by station operator Kenneth T. Salmon. Fowler was arrested at 1 a.m. Wednesday.

Police found $95 among his clothing and Fowler attempted to throw $279 in cheques out a detective office window. Still missing is $100.

Fowler was remanded until Wednesday morning for sentence.

Gun-toting Stuart E. Robertson, 28, of Victoria, was remanded until today for city police court sentence after pleading guilty to possession of a gun outside his dwelling without a permit.

Police investigated reports of a man waving a gun in the 500 block Fisgard Saturday afternoon. Robertson was later arrested at Johnson and Douglas, an unloaded gun located under the seat of his truck and a full clip of ammunition found on the seat.

Robertson, who had been drinking, said he had no memory of the incident.

For the second time in one week, 18-year-old Frank R. Carlow, 2607 Selwyn, was fined $10 and his licence recommended for suspension because of fast driving.

Police said yesterday Carlow was paced at 60 miles an hour in a Burnside 30-mile zone from Douglas to Harriet. He said he was "in a hurry to get home."

A similar charge resulted in identical penalty last week.

A former employee of Hygrade Radio Ltd. testified yesterday she had no knowledge of why $41.55 was listed in a receipt book but later could not be accounted for.

Mrs. Belle Jones, 811 St. Charles, is charged with theft of the money.

She said the money was placed in the cash till.

Other employees had access to the cash. Although instructed not to make change, they did, Mrs. Jones said.

She claimed the money could have been taken from the till or from an envelope where cash was kept.

J. G. Ruttan is defence counsel in the case that has seen 22 exhibits entered to date. Prosecutor is Lloyd G. McKenzie.

His cross-examination of the witness will continue May 22.

In searching cross-examination yesterday Mrs. Jones recounted how she left the firm April 11 after a fall. She had 10 X-rays and her doctor told her by telephone that she had suffered a slight concussion.

Of a missing receipt book found away from her desk, Mrs. Jones said anyone could have taken it.

David W. Allman's request to keep his licence for business driving was refused yesterday by city police court Magistrate Henry Hall.

Allman, 49 San Jose, was fined $40 and his licence suspended after he pleaded guilty to careless driving May 7 at Johnson and Government.

Everybody Ready for B.C. Amateur Championship

Laurie Kerr of Colwood, Vancouver Island Open golf champion who is rated a threat for B.C. Amateur honors, gets in some practice on the putting green at Gorge Vale while Vancouver shotmakers Kevin Riley, left, and Max Buckley, a former Australian player, watch his technique. All three swingers toured the Gorge Vale course in a practice round yesterday in preparation for the 36-hole qualifying test of the B.C. Amateur on Friday.

Officials were busy yesterday with last-minute preparations for the four-day tournament, which has attracted 80 golfers, including four from the United States. In charge of running the tournament is Doug Herritage, centre, chairman of the B.C. Golf Association's rules committee. Herritage will get plenty of help from Leo Derman, left, secretary at Gorge Vale, and Vic Painter, Island representative to the B.C. association. — (Colonist photos by Jim Ryan.)

International Flavor Added By American, Aussie Golfers

The 53rd annual B.C. Amateru Golf Championship, which opens Friday with a 36-hole qualifying test at Gorge Vale, has taken on an international flavor with the entry of four American shotmakers and two swingers from Australia.

Max Buckley, a five-handicapper from the Pymble club in Sidney, and Kevin Hartley of the Yarra Yarra club in Melbourne are the two Aussies who filed entries a week ago. Both are recent arrivals to Vancouver, where they have started businesses.

Buckley, a pleasant, black-haired golfer who confesses he has had little tournament competition the past four years, was one of a number of mainland swingers who arrived here yesterday for a couple of days of pre-tournament practice.

The 27-year-old native of Sidney, who lived 16 months in eastern Canada before returning to Australia for a short time, has started a diamond-cutting business in Vancouver. He has been a "weekend" golfer for the past few years and hasn't bothered in trying to reduce his club handicap of five, which he has retained for almost 10 years.

Hartley, the only scratch player among the 80 entries, is a former member of one of the largest clubs in Melbourne. He has won several club championships, has been well up in Victoria state competitions and has won the Eastern Victoria championship.

The 22-year-old Hartley will arrive today with the bulk of the lower mainland golfers, who will get one or two practice rounds under their belts before the tournament opens Friday morning.

Buckley, who joined Kevin Riley and Bob Moir, both of Vancouver, and Gorge Vale club champion Dave Fanthorpe in a practice round yesterday, said "This is one of the prettiest courses I have ever played on."

Both Buckley and Riley, British Columbia junior champion two years ago, said the course was playing "tight" and thought it would take a good score to qualify. However, a good number of local observers feel that the long, hilly fairways and tricky greens will make it tough for any golfer to break par.

TWO DOUBTFUL

Heading the list of Americans is John Wood, a two handicapper from Seattle. Others entered are Wally Grey of Seattle, Vic Marion of Bellingham and Joe Uhlman of Tacoma while there's still speculation that Rod Funseth of Spokane and Erv Parent of Seattle will be here for the four-day tourney.

Earlier reports had it that Funseth, one of the top amateurs in Washington, would enter but Doug Herritage of Vancouver, chairman of the B.C. Golf Association's rules committee, said yesterday he has received no word from the Spokane golfer.

Herritage arrived here yesterday and will work with Vic Painter of Victoria and Leo Derman, secretary at Gorge Vale, in running the tourney.

Thirty-two golfers will qualify for the opening of match play Saturday when the first two rounds will be played. Quarter-finals and semi-finals are set for Sunday with the 36-hole final scheduled Monday.

Morgan Brilliant for Yanks; Dodgers Pressing for Lead

Tom "Plowboy" Morgan yesterday came up with one of the season's greatest relief-pitching job to move the New York Yankees back into first place in the American League. Morgan relieved Mickey McDermott in the fourth inning with the bases loaded and one out and retired 17 men in a row in a hitless performance which gave the Yanks a 4-1 win over Cleveland Indians. The score at the time of Morgan's appearance was 1-1.

The Yanks picked up their runs one at a time, the first coming on Billy Martin's first home run and the third on Mickey Mantle's 13th circuit smash.

Chicago White Sox made it six in a row to move within a game and a half of the lead by besting Washington Senators, 3-1, behind the fine pitching of Dick Donovan.

The White Sox and Yanks open a three-game series at Chicago today which could settle the seriousness of the Chicago threat.

Baltimore Orioles moved to the .500 mark, only three and a half games out of the lead, by edging Kansas City Athletics, 8-6. As usual, George Zuverink, the season's relief pitching sensation, finished up for the Orioles.

Boston Red Sox, losing southpaw Mel Parnell for an indefinite period with an ankle sprain, topped Detroit Tigers, 4-2, in the other American League game.

LEADERS BEATEN

Things got tighter in the National League as the first-place Milwaukee Braves lost to the Philadelphia Phils, 2-1, while the third-place Brooklyn Dodgers downed the second-place St. Louis Cardinals, 5-3.

Results left the Cards a half-game ahead but the Braves ahead on percentage and the Dodgers third.

Errors cost the Cards a ball game, the Dodgers scoring five unearned runs in the fourth inning. Wally Moon had given St. Louis the lead in the third inning with a three-run homer. One of the features of the game was that four pinch-hitters all went down on strikes.

EX-CARD HELPS

Solly Hemus, traded by the Cardinals earlier in the week, singled in the winning run for the Phils as Robin Roberts won his fourth game in seven decisions.

Puttsburgh Pirates moved into the first division, keeping up their fine play by dumping Cincinnati Redlegs, 9-2. And New York Giants again dropped Chicago Cubs, 9-3, in the other game.

Topeka Gets a Real Buy In Yank Bargain Basement

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — New York Yankees were so anxious to get rid of bush leaguer Al Weygandt that they put a $100 price tag on him and told the Topeka club of the Western League it could have him on a 30-day free trial basis.

Some astute genius in the Hawks' management decided May 1 to send the Yankees the $100 payment even though it wasn't due until May 19.

Now Weygandt is busting the loop's slugging records wide open. In a three-day span of four consecutive games he has slammed 10 home runs to account for 21 runs batted in.

The six-foot two-inch, 190-pound first baseman, who in three years of bouncing around the Yankee chain never caused any opposing pitcher a serious headache, says he thinks his sensational streak is the result of a change in his batting stance ordered by Topeka manager Buddy Bates.

Speaking Briefly

Saxton Looks Good In Beating Turner

Johnny Saxton, who won the welterweight championship from Carmen Basilio on what many thought was a bad decision, looked like a champion last night as he stopped Gil Turner on a 10th-round technical knockout at Chicago.

In the nationally-televised bout, Saxton was clearly superior with his clear punching and cooly outmanoeuvred the pressing Turner. The turning point in the fight came in the first round when Saxton slashed a small cut on the outer edge of Turner's right eye.

Saxton kept widening the gash steadily and treatment was useless from the seventh round on as Saxton took charge of the tiring Turner. The ring-side physician ordered the bout stopped after an examination during the intermission between the ninth and 10th rounds. Dr. Irving Slott said that when Turner removed his mouthpiece in his corner "he brought up about a cup of blood."

Turner had been bleeding heavily from both his nose and mouth. It was only the second time he had failed to last the distance. Victory for Saxton avenged one of the four defeats on his record, the one which ended the streak of 39 victories and one draw in his first 40 professional fights.

Cards Trade Away $100,000 Shortstop

Major league clubs yesterday almost completed the juggling of their rosters to get within the 25-player limit without producing a single "major" trade or sale.

St. Louis Cardinals, however, made news again as "Trader Frank" Lane continued to make moves. This time he traded shortstop Alex Grammas, who cost the Cards $100,000 a few seasons back, and outfielder Joe Frazier to Cincinnati for Chuck Harmon, a utility player.

Cleveland Indians traded catcher Hank Foiles to Pittsburgh for first-baseman Preston Ward in an inter-league waiver deal and then got down to the limit by sending catcher Earl Averill and infielder Bobby Young to Indianapolis and selling pitcher Jose Santiago to San Diego.

Kansas City released Elmer Valo, veteran outfielder, optioned pitcher Arnie Portocarrero to Birmingham, pitcher Bill Harrington to San Diego, pitcher Art Ceccarelli to Columbus, and sold catcher Joe Astroth to San Diego.

Chicago White Sox optioned outfielder Ron Northey to Indianapolis and sent catcher Earl Batey and pitcher Bill Fischer to Toronto.

Brooklyn Dodgers shipped Karl Spooner, their sore-armed southpaw prospect to St. Paul; Pittsburgh sent righthanders Joe Trimble, Bob Garber and Bob Purkey to Hollywood, and Philadelphia Phillies sent pitchers Duane Pillette and Angelo Lipetri to Miami.

Shamrocks Extend Unbeaten Streak To Tie Timbermen

By IAN GLENDAY

Victoria Shamrocks, showing all their power in the opening half, picked on the hapless New Westminster Salmonbellies for their third straight Inter-City Lacrosse League victory Wednesday night at Memorial Arena to set the stage for a first-place battle with Nanaimo Timbermen Saturday.

Playing before about 2,000 fans, the Shamrocks took advantage of a short-handed New Westminster club that indicated it will need a lot in the way of improvement before being rated a threat to pull into a first-place tie with the powerful Timbermen.

Last night's score: New Westminster 10 at VICTORIA 14.
Next game, tonight, Vancouver at New Westminster.

TWO INJURIES

The Rocks, who started the season without six of the players who helped them win the Mann Cup last year and have since lost goalie Geordie Johnston and star-forward Pee Wee Bradshaw through illness and injury, respectively, may be short two more players for the next game or two.

Bob Monaghan, shifty defence veteran, re-injured his knee when he was banged into the boards by Murray Duncan in the third quarter. And defenceman Bill Bamford also suffered a knee injury, when boarded heavily in the fourth quarter.

Both players failed to return to action after their injuries and coach Whitey Severson won't know until later in the week whether or not they will be ready for Saturday's important test.

Severson, who switched his lineup for last night's game, watched in satisfaction as the Shamrocks rolled to a 10-3 half-time lead and all three forward lines clicked for several pretty goals by using a snappy short-passing attack.

GOT SLOPPY

But the freshman coach was far from pleased with his club's performance in the final quarter in which the Rocks started with a 13-7 lead and were outscored 3-1. Severson lashed the Irish in the dressing room after they loafed through most of the final 15 minutes and switched from team play to individual rushes.

The Salmonbellies, who have some promising youngsters but lack the one or two "big" men needed to spark the attack, fell behind 4-1 in the opening quarter and lost heart when the winners scored six straight goals in the second session.

WEAK OPPOSITION

Playing without Jack Barclay, Art Pruden, Jake Trotzuk, Don and Cliff Sepka, their leading scorer, the Salmonbellies were outplayed in every department and were thoroughly disorganized during most of the ragged contest.

Max Skinner and Len Kupchak, playing his first game of the season, both turned in creditable performances and topped the New Westminster scorers with three and two goals, respectively.

Scoring was well divided for the Shamrocks with six players — Archie Browning, Alan Gill, Harry Irwin, Bert Bertoia, Jackie Northup and rookie Ed Longpre—each connecting twice. Gill and Northup each added two assists.

Don Hamilton, taking over from Johnston in goal, was at his best in the first period. The husky junior, tough to beat at close range, had his troubles in the second half but he was given little protection by the goal-hungry Shamrocks.

Mechanized Robin Hood Gets $77,000 from Track

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UP)—Daily double players at the opening of the Bay Meadows quarter horse meeting Tuesday cashed in at least $77,000 more than they should have because the track's mechanical brain flunked a problem in arithmetic.

The track said at least 313 holders of winning double tickets were paid $269.70 each because the totalizator board recorded only 27 tickets sold and divided up the $8,370 mutuel pool accordingly.

The lapse was blamed on "defective wiring" and the combination of Violet Rose and Mario Tass (3-1) should have paid only $28.70 each.

The track said that there may be still tickets outstanding.

The public sent a record opening day amount of $162,752 through the machines during the nine-horse card—possibly because so many people had extra money in their pockets.

Western Oils Make Gains At Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Lack of incentive kept the stock market at idling speed Wednesday as it recorded its third straight decline. Volume dropped to 4,395,000 shares from 5,000,000 shares Tuesday to 4,395,000, the lowest since Jan. 24.

The industrial index of 20 key stocks dropped 3.12, but this was in large part accounted for by a $6.25 tumble by Stelco trading ex-rights. Higher issues included Canadian Canners, up $1.75 at a high of $38.

Royalite Sulphur put on a late spurt in western oils to close at a new high of $15, up $1.25. Triad advanced 75 cents to $8.75. Merrill and Canadian Export Gas were firm. Husky eased ⅜ and Canada Southern was off 35 cents.

Papers Decline

MONTREAL (CP)—Some wide losses were recorded as industrial prices held lower levels for the third successive session at the close of moderate trading.

Great Lakes and Powell River were point losers as the papers declined. Refining oils were mixed in a ¼ point range while Trans Mountain advanced ¾ in the pipe lines.

The steel section was mixed fractionally.

Motors in Reverse

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices were irregularly lower Wednesday in one of the narrowest markets of the year.

The turn down was apparent quite early in General Motors and that tended to unsettle the rest. H. H. Curtice, president of GM, told of a new production cut by his company and revised downward his estimate for the output of the entire industry. He calculated it would be off some 22 per cent from last year.

GM was the day's most active issue, off ⅝ at 44½ on 87,500 shares.

Motors as a group were somewhat mixed. That also was the situation for steels and aircrafts. Rails were higher on balance. Leading oils were mostly lower as were chemicals. Coppers were higher along with most airlines. Aluminum stocks were ahead on talk of price increases.

Rally at London

LONDON (Reuters) — The London stock market was quietly firm with buying selective.

Industrials rallied and small gains predominated. Leading engineering and steel issues were a few pence better. Among motors, Rolls Royce recovered from their early dullness. Associated cement was wanted on dividend hopes.

Textiles were strong under the lead of Courtaulds.

Kaffirs were quiet. Coppers were firm. Elsewhere Western Selection was firm on reports of a uranium discovery by a Canadian subsidiary. Oils were favored with British Petroleum and Triad strong.

Electrical Equipment

Gap in Prices Will Close

By HARRY YOUNG

Colonist Business Editor

Lots of people want to know why it is that Canadians have to pay anything from 20 per cent to 40 per cent more than the U.S. prices for electrical appliances and equipment.

James H. Goss, president of Canadian General Electric, says the gap in prices will close as the Canadian market grows. [illegible] there are over a dozen plants turning out electrical equipment for a market that could be more economically served by one.

"Lower prices current in the United States are due to the economic mass production of main electrical lines," said Mr. Goss, paying his first visit to Victoria since his election last year as president of the Canadian subsidiary of the great Schnectady firm.

Mr. Goss, who was accompanied by H. M. Turner, chairman of Canadian General Electric, met the company's main customers on Vancouver Island.

These included T. H. Crosbie and H. H. Griffin, of the B.C. Power Commission, for whom Canadian General Electric is supplying the gas turbines for the new auxiliary plant at Nanaimo.

Mr. Goss said the gas turbines in which General Electric specialized had been proved a handy and economical way of supplementing hydro power and dealing with emergencies and peak loads.

It takes only 15 minutes to get a gas turbine going full blast and unlike other thermal [illegible] city no middle process such as steam is required. The gas turbine works the generators direct.

FROBISHER HAS PLANS

Frobisher Ltd., the mining company with extensive plans for the development of power in northeastern B.C., made a net profit of $281,829 (4½ cents a share) in 1955. This compared with $179,245 (3¼ cents a share) in 1954.

Frobisher's B.C. activities at Taku-Yukon and on the Nass river were said by A. J. Anderson, president, to be at the design stage and that both were confirmed as being economically feasible.

The Taku-Yukon hydro electric project was being stalled by international complications but there was nothing to stop the $50,000,000 construction job on the Nass which would produce 150,000 horse power.

IRON BONDS COMING

Canadian Javelin is shortly to issue $16,000,000 bonds known as the Wabash Lake Railroad Company 4½ per cent first mortgage bonds. The bonds will be fully guaranteed by the Newfoundland government and Canadian Javelin.

Details of the issue will be made late in June, but the $1,000 bonds will be sold with a warrant attached to buy 16 shares of Canadian Javelin at a fixed price.

Canadian Javelin claims its Wabash iron ore property will rival the Mesabi Range as the greatest concentration of premium ore, and its president, John C. Doyle, announced in New York this week it had contracted to supply $637,000,000 worth of ore to British and German steel mills over a 15-year period.

B.C. Electric has sold its old Vancouver office building to San Francisco interests which recently bought the Standard building in that city.

Copper Stocks Mixed

VANCOUVER — Business was light with little buying enthusiasm. Copper stocks were mixed with Skeena higher at 21 cents while Bethlehem, Jackson Basin and Cowichan Copper lost ground. Quatsino also weakened to 80 cents but Trojan was steady at 74½ cents.

Most oils weakened with Del Rio at 3.00, Britalta at 3.00, Charter at 2.00 and Pathfinder 1.34.

Among industrials Powell River slipped to $57 and Western Plywood to $26.

Cut-and-Fill Garbage Dump Great Success in Sidney

SIDNEY — Vindication of the Sidney Village Commission is indicated following [illegible] tion of the first [illegible] in the cut-and-fill garbage disposal program.

Garbage is dumped into a deep trench until the desired level is reached. It is then covered with soil.

The first covering has been made and general satisfaction is felt with the results. Eventually a large area which is now a swamp will be converted into a public park.

At the institution of the program a load [illegible] test in which all met with the approval of public health authorities.

* * *

Efforts are being made to [illegible] of the few beach [illegible] to which the public has access.

Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce will apply to the provincial government to have the Bazan Bay shorefront from [illegible] Slough to Second street deeded a public park.

It is suggested that Lochside Drive be built up to allow a parking and that the road be extended along the old CNR right of way to tie in with the park which is to be developed by the Village of Sidney.

Exceptionally warm weather of the past few weeks has brought more people than ever to the beach.

* * *

North Saanich Rod and Gun Club has moved its quarters.

It suffered a blow when the club's traps at Sidney were taken over by a piggery. The club was unable to reach an agreement with the holder of the land who allowed them to use it until this year.

Buildings owned by the club were donated to the North Saanich War Memorial Park Society and were moved to that body's grounds last week.

Formed shortly after the end of the war, the Rod and Gun Club at one time had a membership of over one hundred.

Saanich Boundary May Be Adjusted

A small group of residents living in unorganized territory just outside the southwest boundary of Saanich may come within municipal limits in the near future.

Agreement has been reached [illegible] and the provincial government to adjust the boundary which formerly cut through the middle of many lots so that whole lots are either in Saanich or in Crown land.

Affecting only about 15 residents [illegible] area west of [illegible] the move was [illegible] to simplify taxation [illegible]

Tax Picture Tells Story

It won't soften the blow, but Saanich ratepayers may be able to get the picture of their municipality's budget when tax bills arrive [illegible] this year.

[illegible] Monday [illegible] passed a recommendation by Reeve Arthur A[illegible] that each tax bill include a slip of paper [illegible] and expenditures will be [illegible] large cake sliced like a pie.

A picture is [illegible] more easily understood than [illegible] figures [illegible] be able to see [illegible] and [illegible]

'The Indian Faces a Challenge'

This is the first of a series on B.C. native Indians, their problems of integration, education and housing, welfare and health.

By PETER BRUTON
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Native Indians are the fastest-growing ethnic race in Canada.

The 1949 census showed a total of 27,935 Indians living in B.C. and officials now estimate this figure to be in the neighborhood of 33,000.

An ever-increasing number is seeking integration into the social and industrial life of the province.

They are making the initial move towards integration and the white residents are faced with the duty and responsibility of making the way to full citizenship easier for them.

There are, however, many barriers.

Although federal legislation, the Indian Act, still governs their [illegible] that the Indians are turning for their education, livelihood and [illegible]

The provincial advisory committee on Indian Affairs, under the [illegible] of Labor Minister Lyle Wicks, was formed in 1951 to help Indians.

As far as Mr. Wicks is concerned the present reserve system is one of the chief stumbling blocks of successful integration.

"We will never achieve integration while the Indians separate themselves on the reserves," he explains. "That's something the Indians themselves have to realize."

As a province B.C. is doing all it can to encourage the Indians to assume the responsibilities and to enjoy the benefits of full citizenship.

Any move to raise the standard of living, however, must come from the Indians themselves.

"For too long Indians have thought of themselves as people apart, inferior and unwanted," said Mr. Wicks. "Now they must accept a challenge with the knowledge that the chance for improvement devolves upon themselves."

Although the desire to raise himself from his present condition must come from the Indian, [illegible]

A new sense of responsible [illegible] is being born among the Indians, [illegible] many were showing a tendency to take part in the social and industrial life of the province.

Even in remote areas of B.C. where the Indians have been cut off from close contact with western [illegible] they are being attracted by good wages, educational facilities for their children and the white man's way of life.

"No longer are the Indians content to live inertly and separately on their reserves while the standard of living and economy rise outside their boundaries with increasing momentum," said Mr. Wicks.

[illegible]

To those who are aware of the complexity of problems to be overcome by both federal and provincial governments in this transitional period of Indian affairs, progress may not appear fast.

Nevertheless, as the incoming tide covers the beach by inches before it reaches full flood, so is the work of co-operation between federal and provincial authorities progressing towards full integration of the Indians into the social and economic life of British Columbia.

These youngsters are typical of the up-and-coming new generation of B.C. Indians, proud of their race, anxious to accept full citizenship and eagerly integrating themselves with the newcomers to their continent. From left to right are Tony and Herman Underwood brothers, and Barry Underwood, their cousin. They live on Mount Newton crossroad and attend Brentwood's Roman Catholic school where nuns of the Sacred Heart maintain a high standard of learning.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Recipe Exchange Gives Ideas For Inexpensive Main Dishes

Whoever it was who coined the phrase, "people are funny," never spoke truer words. Last night, considerable time was spent reading and re-reading your letters, for which many thanks. To any and every columnist these are most helpful as they are indications of [illegible] instance, requests have come in for recipes for people living alone. In the same mail someone asks for suggestions for a luncheon for 30 people! (No rush, she says—thank goodness, say I). We'll do our utmost to satisfy all your needs but, if you are "half human" you will realize it's going to take time in this limited space.

Meanwhile, it seems the constant demand is for more and more economical recipes. How understandable this is with the high price of food everywhere—not only in Victoria! So before you do your weekend shopping here are a few ideas for fairly inexpensive main courses. Some of these recipes have been exchanged, just like small boys trade marbles. And so it is, in return for one I sent her, a friend of mine living in the Southern States sent me this one; . . . it's excellent . . .

CHICKEN STEW WITH DUMPLINGS

(about five servings)

One five-pound fowl, disjointed; 1 onion sliced; 1 carrot sliced; 3 celery stalks with leaves, chopped; 4 sprigs parsley; 1 tablespoon salt; ¼ teaspoon marjoram. Put cut-up fowl in large saucepan and add about a quart of cold water. Bring slowly to the boil. Tie vegetables in a piece of cheesecloth and add to the fowl along with the salt and marjoram and a shake of black pepper. Simmer till very tender, about three hours. Bring chicken to a full boil and drop spoonfuls of dumpling mixture on top of chicken. Before doing so, will you decide if there are about three cups of broth in the saucepan? If not, add water to make that amount. Boil covered for about fifteen minutes or just long enough to cook dumplings. We ran a recipe for these the other day so cannot repeat it. But a quick alternative is this . . . Mix 1 egg with ¼ cup milk; stir it into one cup of prepared packaged biscuit mix. This saves time and the result is good. Incidentally, the above recipe for cooking fowl might well be done in a pressure cooker (if you have one.)

Here's another inexpensive little number. The recipe may look long but as we have so often said, you do not have to adhere to these recipes exactly. Keep to the basic idea—that is all we ask—and change the ingredients to suit your taste and purse. The following recipe proves what I mean: change it in any way you like you won't hurt the feelings of yours truly so long as you are satisfied with the result.

COD VEGETABLE CASSEROLE

One-quarter cup diced celery; ½ cup chopped green pepper; 1 tablespoon butter or margarine; 2 cups medium white sauce, well seasoned; 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento; 1 cup corn kernels; 1 cup diced cooked carrots seasoned, if liked, with 1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar; 2 cups flaked cooked cod. Saute celery and green pepper in butter until tender. Combine with all other ingredients and turn mixture into a greased casserole. Top with thickly sliced cooked potatoes. Cover with grated cheese and bake in hot oven, 425 degrees, till piping hot and nicely browned on surface—about 25 minutes.

* * *

Unless you live alone, don't read this. A pal of mine just dropped in and said and I quote . . .

"I get sick and tired of these recipes which serve four to six. I live alone and like it but have to eat fish tomorrow so what?" OK sir. Buy one fillet of your favorite fish. Buy one tin (you know, these little ones for babies) of rice and cheese. Put the fillet of fish into a small pan and pour over the contents of the aforementioned tin. Cover and cook slowly for about 15 minutes. Result? a tasty little meal with a ready-made cheese sauce. This is no fooling. For people who live alone, when and if dollars permit, these baby and junior foods which come in individually sized tins, are invaluable.

TRICK OF THE DAY

This is my own and it works beautifully . . . No quotations marks necessary . . . Grease spots on suede shoes will disappear if rubbed with a clean cloth dipped in glycerine.

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

FEATHER TOUCH. If your skin is to stay baby-fine, it needs the same coddling as a baby's soap, water and a feather touch. Spare the soap and you jeopardize skin health; scrub harshly and you irritate or stretch tissue.

To avoid any such dire consequence, always wash your face by this method: Whip up a froth of suds with hands, apply to face and gently massage in with fingertips. Use rotary motions and work up from underside of jaw, being especially attentive to areas around chin and nose. Rinse by catching clear water in cupped hands and showering over face. Continue rinsing until skin "squeaks" to touch. That's the signal of a sparkling job.

A LOVELIER COMPLEXION

Whatever your skin problems, to find a solution send for my booklet, "A Lovelier Complexion." Detailed advice contained includes the correct care for dry, oily, combination and normal skin types; proper application methods, treatments for blackheads, enlarged pores, circles, wrinkles, crepiness, etc. For your copy of "A Lovelier Complexion," write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20c in coin to cover cost and handling.

Brownie Packs Organized

The Central District Local Association of Girl Guides met recently at the home of Mrs. E. J. Fatt, 407 Cook street. Mrs. J. Hunter, District Commissioner, presided. An interesting report on the provincial annual meeting held in Vancouver was given by Mrs. G. Humphrys, delegate. Two new Brownie packs have been organized, one at the St. Barnabas Church hall. Camp plans were discussed and it was decided not to have a garden party this year but to hold a rummage sale in the early fall.

RUMMAGE SALE

Plans for a rummage sale to be held Saturday, May 19 at 8 a.m., in the CCF hall, Courtney street, will be completed at a meeting of Aldyen Hamber chapter, IODE, to take place May 17 at the home of Mrs. Peter Balten, 1720 Hollywood crescent.

Fleece Coats Washable By Hand or in Machine

Although most of us now take for granted the idea of washable spring coats made of brushed fleece, owners may be hesitant about plunging such bulky garments into suds for the first time.

Before filling up the washing machine or the laundry tub with warm, but not hot, water be sure your coat actually is washable. If it's made of nylon or "Orlon" acrylic fibre and is lined with a washable fabric, you don't need to send it to the cleaners. Then, examine the coat for severely soiled areas and rub them with a paste of detergent or soap and water. Grease stains call for a liquid spotting agent. If you use a heavy duty soap rather than a detergent, add a water softener.

Whether washing by hand or machine, avoid twisting the garment or subjecting it to any vigorous treatment. If the hand method is used, follow through with a thorough rinsing before hanging it up dripping wet on a strong, non-staining hanger. Omit wringing because it will only wrinkle the fabric. Smooth the hem, seams and collar and they will dry to shape. The shower curtain rod in the bathroom or the basement are suitable spots for drip-drying a garment.

If you prefer to machine-wash the coat, use the highest water level available and a low temperature setting. Set the machine for a five-to-seven minute wash cycle. If you don't intend to machine-dry it, remove the coat before the spinning or water extraction phase of the wash cycle. Otherwise allow the coat to go through the complete cycle.

When using a tumbler-type drier following either machine or hand [illegible] should be removed from the garment as home driers usually have difficulty handling fully saturated coats.

This can be accomplished in machine washing by allowing the coat to go through the complete washing cycle, including the spinning or water extraction phase. For a hand washing coat, allow it to drip dry until contains practically no water before placing it in the tumble drier.

When the coat is ready for machine drying use the lowest temperature setting available and tumble until damp dry. Then remove it immediately after completion of the cycle and hang it up.

One smashing outfit from Digby Morton was in the season's most popular color combination, grey and yellow. The town coat of grey and yellow tweed had back belt and pockets at a new low, worn over a daffodil yellow cashmere pullover and Scottish woolen skirt.

The lovely cashmere sweaters referred to by Miss Kathy Allan, commentator, as a way of life in Victoria came in a galaxy of shades and styles.

Imported [illegible] a French [illegible]

[illegible] extremely elegant.

Swedish imports included an angora sweater, pearl brown outlined with moss green at the neckline to give a collar effect. It was worn with matching green doeskin skirt. Sweden also sent a coat, incredibly a raincoat, but smart enough for evening wear.

[illegible]

From Italy came a grey cardigan banded with blue and grey stripes worn with a matching pullover of lighter grey and pale blue skirt.

Dior at his most elegant was represented by a black cashmere sweater worn with a slim skirt of light wool with small pleats at one side. With it went a large black cartwheel hat.

In the [illegible] of the [illegible] were [illegible] striped [illegible]

Fashions for the younger set were shown too. Hand smocked Liberty lawn made a charming dress for a little girl, and just the thing for a well-dressed little boy was a "Beau Brummel" jacket worn with short grey flannel trousers. The children carried intriguing toys which formed a part of the Import Fair.

A PADRE IN PRINT

By REV. WILLIAM HILLS

Over 200 years ago Richard Steele writing in "The Tatler" said "Reading is to the mind what exercise is to the body."

That should come as a word of warning to the devotee of the comic strip, the photographic magazine and the TV tube. In all these instances you don't read, you look.

Looking doesn't exercise the mind. It tends to put it to sleep, or at the least to blunt the sense of discrimination.

[illegible] after television has taken possession of the living room conversation and the guests at the [illegible] respectable citizens can watch murder, robbery, arson and the like without batting an eye.

Some parents are not concerned if their innocent and dewy-eyed children join them in [illegible] the screen. They don't seem to [illegible] see so long as they be quiet.

Not too long ago, a family of three invested in a television set. At first an elaborate system of rules for viewing was set up. Dad was quite proud of them, and for the first week or so Junior had to conduct himself by them—or else!

But [illegible] spot viewed.

The government's decision was to hold a referendum at the time of the next general election, due toward the end of next year. The hotly argued case against a referendum is that the public is liable to decide on an [illegible] instead of [illegible] an objective weighing of all the evidence.

Crops Surviving Heat But Rain Need Urgent

Government agriculturists warned yesterday that while there is nothing critical yet in the farm front and field crop situation, Saanich will need "rain within a week."

[illegible]

Low lands have excellent conditions for working such crops as grains and potatoes.

[illegible]

Provincial horticulturist R. P. Murray reported crops are growing well in present conditions but warned rain is needed for non irrigated farms.

Strawberry crops [illegible] comes he said.

Mr. Murray added that Saanich peninsula "got off [illegible] losses in other areas of the province from winter frosts—most severe around Creston, the Alberni and Fraser valleys.

Wife Bolts Her Screwy Nut Genius

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Phyllis C. Brumfield testified in divorce court that her husband had a genius IQ, but he "was always performing juvenile antics, such as crawling all over his convertible while it was in motion."

This the 21-year-old wife told Judge A. A. Scott Wednesday constituted cruelty.

She added that John R. Brumfield, also 21, wouldn't work, wouldn't establish a home, had no interest in their 20-month-old son Jonathan. Mrs. Brumfield got the divorce decree and custody of Jonathan.

Brumfield is supervisor of a nut and bolt factory.

You both enjoy mealtime

with Pablum Cereals!

And a happy mealtime is important to your baby's sense of security as well as his general health—ask your doctor.

Baby's sure to like Pablum Mixed Cereal. It's the one pre-cooked infant cereal that sells more than all other mixed cereals together. And there are three other Pablum cereals to please him — Rice, Oatmeal and Barley, all smooth textured, just suited to Baby's taste.

Like any good product, Pablum* has imitators. But where Baby is concerned, only real Pablum will do. For Baby's mealtime—be sure to get real Pablum.

It isn't real Pablum without this

Don't use all the hot water, Sis! I've got a date tonight.
There's plenty for you, too, silly. Our hot water's automatic, remember?

The whole family benefits from an automatic storage water heater (gas or electric). And what a blessing it is to have all the clean hot water you need without the nuisance of lighting a fire!

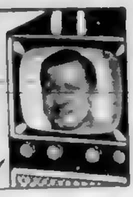
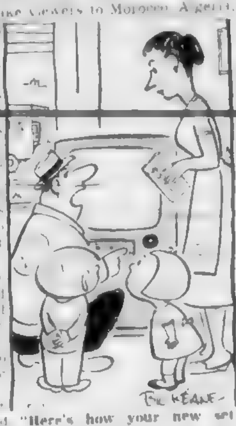
TV Talk



By ROY PARRETT

One of television's best reporting efforts is seen on channels 11 and 12 tonight when Edward R. Murrow presents his second "Report from Africa." The hour-long documentary will take viewers to Morocco, Algeria, Libya, Egypt, the Sudan and Uganda.



"Here's how your new set operates. This ohnay is the annelchay electorsay . . ."

Mr. Murrow attempts to show in his "See It Now" series the [illegible] continent and the forces at work there. In his first report from Africa seen on television last month, nationalist movements were seen working to gain independence for many African states.

In tonight's CBS report Mr. Murrow and his cameramen will demonstrate in commentary and interview the importance of two words in this strategic area.

The words are freedom and water, and the program will show their significance among the new states which have gained their independence in recent years or which are at present the scene of nationalist disturbance.

Report From Africa is seen here on both KTNT-TV and KVOS-TV at 7 p.m.

VANCOUVER HEALTH CENTRE—The medical care given to thousands of children at the Children's Health Centre in Vancouver is shown on channel 2 at 8 tonight. Included in the 20-minute telecast is a film of the opening of the centre in 1951 by the Duke of Edinburgh.

* * *

"The Corpse in Room 12" is the intriguing title of the channel 12 drama at 8 tonight.

Six oddly assorted men are adrift on an ice island in the tense "Flame Out at T-6," channel 11 and 12 drama at 8:30.

Jane Wyman presents the channel 2 story, "The Past is Always Present," at the same time.

Susan Harrison, pretty 17 year old, stars in "Star Tonight," channel 5 offering at 9.

A story by O. Henry, "The Gentle Grafter," is the channel 2 theatre production at 9.

A strange marriage for money takes place as Charles Boyer stars in "The Other Room," at 9.30 on channel 11.

A detective has a frightening assignment on Ford Theatre, top drama on channel 4 at 9.30.

Pleasant music and song mark channel 2's "Lolly Too Dum," a Vancouver show at 10 p.m.

A television replay is on channel 4 as "Prince O'Rourke" is presented at 11.

"Heist Man" is the title of Confidential File's channel 5 and 12 offering at 10.

Macdonald Carey stars in "The Kill," a repeat of the channel 4 program, on channel 12 at 10.30 p.m.

Science Fiction Theatre has a story about a missing A-bomb on channel 5 at 10.30.

Concert music by Jean Deslauriers is heard on channel 2 at 10.30.

A train wreck solves the problems of many people in "Train of Events," channel 12 movie at 11.

An unannounced movie is the channel 2 feature at 11.15, following the B.C. News.

David Niven and Leslie Howard are seen in "Spitfire," wartime flying story, on channel 11 at 11.30.

* * *

And a pleasant day to all, especially sportsmen entered in the "King Fisherman" contest.

$500 CASH

There are many reasons why you should not buy this eight-room house with two bathrooms. The location is not of the best—too close to the industrial area. It's an old house—imagine anybody buying an old house, especially when it needs painting and decorating. Besides, the price is too high. There are also many reasons why you SHOULD make an offer to purchase this property. Don Bacon will tell you all about it.

'Cures' for Runny Noses, Cancer

Won't Believe News But Quotes Booklet

LYDIA ARSENS, MLA

PORT ALBERNI — The story of how she used to believe everything she read but was disillusioned by newspaper stories during her first political campaign was told here Tuesday night by Mrs. Lydia Arsens, MLA.

She spoke at a meeting sponsored by the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association, which later endorsed a resolution from Cobble Hill delegates that there be no change in the provincial milk act.

A new act, expected to be proclaimed soon, gives municipal councils or village commissions power to introduce compulsory pasteurization.

Although Mrs. Arsens said she was no longer gullible enough to believe the printed word, she quoted from a number of pamphlets to add weight to her opinions in favor of raw milk, non-fluoridated water and several "cures" for cancer.

HEART BEAT

She told how her "heart beat and at the same time her fists clenched" when she read a pamphlet last fall and found that "cancer can be cured." Medical experts have stated no cure has been found.

Among the statements made by the Social Credit member during her address were: Fed on pasteurized milk, a child gets a runny nose, becomes sleepy and groggy; pasteurized milk drugs a child; raw fruits are life-giving foods that God meant us to eat; cows drinking fluoridated water become victims of diarrhoea, pyorrhoea, arthritis and sterility; fluorine accelerates growth of cancer; the Hoxey clinic is performing miracles in curing cancer; potassium deficiency is the cause of cancer.

Following Mrs. Arsens' description of cancer "cures" she has seen, Ald. W. C. Hamilton suggested that an organization be formed to combat the skepticism and disdain of people who are not fair enough to investigate truth of the cures. He described an organization which would parade the objects of miracle cures before the public.

'Floats' Really Float!

KYUQUOT—"Floats" for the May Day celebrations and parade in Kyuquot this year will actually float.

Rowboats and outboard motorboats will be decorated for the watery parade which has been the rule here because Kyuquot has no roads.

Riding in the May Queen's float will be Mary Liimatta, Kyuquot school girl.

Symphony Called "Too Rich"

NANAIMO — The amateur symphony orchestra here is "too rich" and more money should be spent on buying instruments, Dr. R. E. Foerster, past president, has told the Nanaimo Symphony Society.

It was announced at the annual meeting that the society nows owns between $1,100 and $1,200 in music, besides various instruments.

The society decided to invite boys from Brannan lake school to become members of the group.

Nat Martin was elected president of the society. Other officers are: Mrs. Hugh B. Heath, vice-president; Mrs. Floyd Watkins, secretary; Robert McDougall, treasurer; and Robert Dunn, Dr. R. Creighton, Mrs. Ralph Torney, Lawrence Spearing, George Molecey, Mrs. T. B. Scott, T. B. McArravy and Dr. R. E. Foerster, board of directors.

BY PETER BRUTON

Colonist Legislative Reporter

Bare point, near Chemainus, has been chosen as the site for the B.C. Power Commission's proposed new $15,000,000 gas turbine power plant to be built on Vancouver Island.

Negotiations for the necessary land, at present owned by MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. are all but complete, The Daily Colonist learned yesterday.

The actual plant will cover some seven acres.

ACCESS ROAD

In addition, an access road has to be constructed to the plant site while berthing facilities will also be constructed to enable oil tankers to deliver the heavy grade fuel.

When complete the plant will generate 100,000 horsepower.

Construction of the thermal plant is designed to prevent "brown-outs" on power hungry Vancouver Island.

It will be the second largest generating unit in the BCPC system—surpassed only by the 168,000 horsepower John Hart hydro plant at Campbell river.

COAL LATER

Although the initial installation will be gas turbine units fuelled by heavy-type oil, provision is being made for future expansion with steam turbine units using coal or other fuel.

The station will be at least partly in operation early next year.

Population of the United States was 167,500,000 in April, 1956, by Washington census bureau estimates.

First Payload Of Loggers Stolen by Sea

TOFINO—A fledgling logging outfit suffered heavy loss when a barge was caught in a tide rip in the swift waters of Matlset Narrows, 12 miles from here, and spilled 600,000 feet of logs.

It was the first shipment of Lorne White and Alec Masso, who have been operating a 10-man camp since November.

The logs were insured, but the partners estimated the loss would still be high as many will never be recovered.

Trail-Blazing Lady Firefighters Add Boys' Auxiliary to Force

GREAT CENTRAL — Great Central lake, which pioneered women's fire departments for protection of logging communities, now has a boys' department.

Fifty-three youngsters up to Grade 6 level have been accepted into the department after completing a questionaire to show their knowledge of fire safety practices.

The regular volunteer fire department made an event of the inauguration of the boys' group, issuing each boy two sparkie sweaters and a badge and taking them for a fire truck ride complete with siren accompaniment.

Feature of the event was a demonstration of fire-fighting techniques by the combined forces of men's and women's brigades as they extinguished a set blaze.

Great Central Women's Fire Brigade was organized some years ago for protection of the community during hours when men were away at work.
